Note: The Sensitivity to Change as highlighted in the landscape character assessment (Chris Blandford Associates, September 2006), is related to a number of factors such as intrinsic landscape qualities, biodiversity value, visual characteristics, historic integrity and re-creatability (i.e. "the degree to which the intrinsic landscape qualities, biodiversity value, visual characteristics, historic integrity of an area can be re-created if eroded or lost"). The landscape character assessment also notes that "the evaluation is based on the relatively broad-brush analysis undertaken at 1:25,000 scale for this Study. The degree of sensitivity is not absolute. It is likely to vary according to the nature of change under consideration, and is therefore only indicative".
